portunity to Secure Dry Farming Meeting.

clares Members of Organization Regard City Highly.

JOHN T. BURNS.

BEING the initial move in a cam-paign started by the Salt Lake Commercial club to secure the National Dry Farming congress for 1912, the secretary of that organiza-tion, John T. Burns, was the guest of honor at a luncheon given yesterday in the private dining room of the Com-mercial club by the committee on con-

George E. Merrili made a brief address of welcome, in which he told Mr. Burns of the suggestion which had been made and taken up by the Commercial club that Salt Lake strive to secure the congress for the 1912 session, and asked the national secretary for suggestions as to the scope of the congress, the number of delegates prob-

Congress Grows. In response, Mr. Burns said that at the second session, when the organi-zation was known as the Trans-Missouri Dry Farming congress, the organ-ization had but 185 members. This session was held in Salt Lake in 1908. At the last session, held recently in Spokane, more than 5,000 members were enrolled and 2,000 of them were present.

The city of Spokane, in securing the congress and entertaining the delegates, spent approximately $25,000. In this congress nearly every state in the union was represented, and in addition to these, delegates were present from many foreign countries, including Brazil, Chile, Hungary, Russia, Mexico and Canada. A large representation tested from Australia, but their arriwhat may be accomplished by the introduction of modern dry farming methods among dry farmers of the world in his declaration that one dry farmer in the next-hone trade of the modern dry farmers of the world in his declaration that one dry farmer in the next-hone trade of the modern dry farmer in the next-hone trade of the first law to the first world in his declaration that one dry farmer in the northwest planted and acres of dry land to wheat and applied the approved methods to its cultivation, with the result that his yield was 45 bushels to the acre, while those farmers around him who trusted to luck and old-fashioned methods, were forced to cut their wheat for hay or be satisfied with a yield of 10 to 12 bushels to the acre.

Millions of Acres.

Colonel Scott left Tuesday for his ninety-mile ride, going the first day to Lehi then sixteen and one-half miles south, returning next day, and then back to Salt Lake yesterday. He estimated he had averaged about 32 miles per day. Colonel Scott submitted to an examination before starting on the trip and upon his return yesterday, and was found to be in better condition than when he left.

Owing to the leave of absence of the commanding officer, when he took his

Millions of Acres.

In describing the possibilities of dry farming, he said that while many thousands of acres have been taken up for dry farming, there are yet 200,000,000 acres of dry farm land west of the Mississippi river open for settlement, which can be made productive by the application of modern methods.

Still another important development which has been brought about through the efforts of the congress, is that the application of the dry farming method to irrigated land makes it possible for the water necessary under the old methods of farming to irrigate one acre, to be sufficient for irrigating two acres. He declared that because of this discovery, the area of irrigated lands would eventually be doubled.

Speaking of the benefits which accrue to a city from securing the congress, he stated that the organization is conducting the best organized and most extensive publicity bureau in the United States. As soon as a city is designated as the next meeting place, the secretary of the national congress establishes his headquarters there and proceeds with the publicity work from that point. A mailing list of 60,000 livenames is one of the assets of the congress, and to all of these the literature of the convention city is sent.

In conclusion, Secretary Burns declared that the members who had attended the 1908 congress had not forgetten the hospitality of Salt Lake as a convention city, and he believed these things should go a long way in securing the congress for Salt Lake in 1912.

After the Congress.

After the Congress. President Joy H. Johnson followed the address of Secretary Burns with a few remarks, and told Mr. Burns that Salt Lake is after the convention for Increase, 18.5 mills; $1,532,937.57.

Nobody has ever furnished an adequate explanation for this increase. It did not go into city improvements, because city improvements are paid for by the abutting property in special taxes. In addition to that, the Tribune party has collected from merchants in the way of sum, however, amounting to only about special taxes $200,000 more in the last two years than was ever collected before.

The city taxes have been increased 100 per cent, and the bonded indebtedness of the city 60 per cent. In bond issues, excess of taxes, special licenses, etc., the Tribune party has taken from the people three millions of dollars in five years in excess of what was ever collected before.

Two Hundred or More of Local Antlered Herd to Make Special Trip Tuesday.

Next Tuesday evening, 200 or more members of the Salt Lake lodge of Elks will swoop down upon the Ogden lodge and make merry with their northern brethren of the antiered herd.

There was a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Salt Lake lodge Wednesday night, at which a delegation from the Ogden lodge, headed by Exalted Ruler C. A. Boyd and Secretary C. O. De Wolf attended.

Exalted Ruler Boyd extended an invitation to the Salt Lake Elks to attend a meeting at the Junction city Tuesday night, and, needless to say, the invitation was accepted instanter, more than 100 Elks signifying their intention of making the trip.

The matter of arrangements was left to the officers of No. 35, and they are planning to run a special to Ogden. The local Elks will probably make the trip over the Bamberger line, leaving here at 6 p. m. Tuesday and returning—when they get good and ready.

At the regular meeting Wednesday night twelve candidates were inducted into the mysteries of the order, bringing the local membership close to the 1,000 mark.

The campaign was become Inated.

The campaign was begun with a view to raising $159,000. This amount was subscribed in sums ranging from $1 to $10,000 and if all had been paid there would have been no foreclosure proceedings on the part of the trust company against the institution, but there remains about $35,000 in subscriptions that have not been satisfied. However, if these subscriptions are paid within six months the association will receive a new lease on life.

Fail to Pay.

According to Secretary Wright, a number of those who subscribed to the fund last year are either dead or have moved away, but in a majority of these cases the sums subscribed were small. Just why some of the larger amounts subscribed have not been paid is inexplicable to Chairmain Moran and to the secretary of the association.

It is pointed out by officials of the organization that it would be anything but beneficial to Salt Lake City to permit the institution to wane and the building to be sold. Business men throughout the country, it is urged, have their eyes upon the local situation, knowing that the Commercial club and business men of this city came to the relief of the association and generously offered their means to save it from distress, and they expect to hear that these obligations have been taken. Secretary Wright declares he cannot believe that public-spirited citizens of Salt Lake, especially those who have believe that public-spirited citizens of Salt Lake, especially those who have subscribed, will permit anything of a reactionary nature to befall the Y. M.
